SAD44:

Budget draft calls for 12 percent hike

Board OKs teacher pay increases

By WENDY HANSCOM

The SAD44 School Board approved a 3.67 percent increase in the salary and benefit package of the district's teachers Monday evening.

The directors also got their first look at the administrators' initial draft of the FY '95 budget. The proposed budget is $6,818,598, or 11.96 percent more than the FY '94 budget.

Pay hike approved

The 3.67 percent increase to members of the Telstar Educators Association (the teachers' union) will cost SAD44 taxpayers $106,852 in FY '95.

Personnel salaries and benefits in the district make up roughly 70 percent of the overall school budget. The wage increases are beyond the so-called "step increases" that teachers receive each year.

Directors also voted a wage increase Monday for the district's superintendent, central office personnel, district supervisors and teachers aides.

Superintendent Ronald Jenkins' salary was increased by 5 percent.

BEARS balk at relocation to health center property

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Volunteers of the Bethel Emergency Ambulance Rescue Service told the town selectmen last week that they would prefer the ambulance barn not be relocated to the Bethel Area Health Center.

At the invitation of the selectmen, a dozen volunteers turned up at last week's meeting. They used the occasion to make the case for relocating the ambulance barn not to the health center, but to the fire station, on the common.

The ambulance barn and the town highway garage will both have to be relocated to make way for the Cross Street commercial project. Last month Bethel voters approved swapping the town's Cross Street parcel in return for a salt/sand shed and new highway garage, to be constructed at the developers' expense.

The site of the Bethel Area Health Center has been the most frequently mentioned option for relocating the ambulance barn (also at the developers' expense).

But the BEARS's volunteers told the selectmen there were two strong arguments against such a move: the rescue service staff does not get along very well with their counterparts at the health center, and OSHA regulations make it increasingly effective to combine

NEWRY YOUTH SKIS IN JUNIOR OLYMPICS--Parker Gray of Newry, a freshman at Telstar High School, was the first Maine finisher in the super giant slalom and the giant slalom at the Eastern Junior Olympics at Hunter Mountain, N.Y. Gray fell and did not finish the slalom competition. Overall, Gray finished 24th in the super GS and 16th in the GS. Gray is one of several local high school skiers who moved on to Junior Olympic action this season. E.J. Chaney of Bethel also competed in the event. Chaney finished 32nd in the SG and 30th in the slalom. Gray is the son of Donald and Sylvia Gray, and Chaney, who attends Carrabassett Valley Academy, is the son of John and Dale Chaney. Public invited to visit last Antarctic husky team

By WENDY HANSCOM

The last team of sled dogs from the Antarctic, are scheduled to arrive in Newry on Thursday.

The former British Antarctic Survey team will stop over for a few days at Mahosuc Guide Service on the Bear River Road. After the brief stop, most of the team will travel on to a new home with the Inuit of Hudson Bay.

Kevin Slater and Polly Mahoney of the guide service and Tony Simpson of Bethel have invited the public to come meet the team on Friday, March 18 from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m.

The huskies are scheduled to arrive in Boston today. A press conference will be held Wednesday morning in Boston. The dog truck will also stop Thursday for another press conference at the headquarters of Timberland in Hampton, N.H.

Once in Newry the team will stretch its legs by working out for a few days.

The huskies' trek to Hudson Bay will begin early next week by truck, when Slater, Mahoney, Simpson, BAS dog handler John Sweeney and nine of the dogs will begin a

Sunday River ready to move into Jordan Bowl

Two new lifts, four new trails to be constructed this summer

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Sunday River Ski Resort has announced plans to open a new mountain area, Jordan Bowl, for skiing next season.

The new area will be located to the west of the resort's Aurora Peak trails. During its first year, the new area will feature a new high-speed detachable quad chairlift, a fixed-grip chairlift and at least four major trails, all of which will be covered by snowmaking, according to Sunday River President Les Otten.

Additional lifts and trails, plus a new access road and a base lodge, are planned for construction during the summer of 1995.

"When local residents first looked at these mountains in the late '50s," Otten said, "they knew that Jordan Mountain had the potential to provide the finest skiing in the Sunday River valley. There's over a square mile of perfect terrain available there. I think it's going to be our finest terrain yet."

The first phase of the Jordan Bowl project, which focuses on the middle of Jordan Bowl's three peaks, will feature a new high-speed detachable quad chairlift nearly a mile in length. The lift will set a new high point on Sunday River's trail map, boosting total vertical descent at Sunday River by more than 10 percent, to 2,300 feet (currently the resort claims 2,011 vertical feet).

Skiers will access the lift from a new trail starting on the lower section of the blue-square Northern Lights trail, or by means of another new chairlift to be built adjacent to the existing Aurora Peak Quad.

Once at the top of Jordan Mountain, skiers will have a choice of three long, wide trails: a black-diamond or "most difficult" run, and two blue square, or "more difficult" runs. All of the terrain will be covered by snowmaking.

More trails, lifts and a new base lodge are planned for construction during the summer of 1995, Otten said.

"We're continuing our tradition of reinvesting in the mountain," he said. "Jordan will be the first new ski mountain developed in New England since we built the Aurora Peak area three years ago."

But routes into the bowl still uncertain

By WENDY HANSCOM

The Newry Planning Board chair has asked the state Department of Environmental Protection to clarify its approval of the Sunday River Ski Resort's secondary access road.

In a letter to Linda Kokemuller, Planning Board chair Don Sandstrom challenged the department's finding that the proposed road will not "unreasonably interfere" with existing recreation in the area.

The proposed secondary access road is on skiway property but would cut through cross country trails managed by Sunday River Inn and Cross-Country Center.

"I just want to clarify why it was the DEP claimed no recreation would be interfered with or no existing land use would be adversely affected," Sandstrom said, "when in fact that seems not to be the case."

The DEP has yet to respond to the letter, Sandstrom said.

Sunday River Inn owner Steve Wight said skiway officials will work with the cross-country center

New study provides economic profile of Evans Notch region

By MICHAEL DANIELS

A 53-page report has just been released examining in depth the economics of the Evans Notch region.

The report represents the completion of the first phase of the Evans Notch Diversification and Development Project, which has been funded by a Rural Development Grant from the U.S. Forestry Service to the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

The report was compiled by George P. Herrick, who was hired in July by the project's advisory committee.

The Evans Notch region, as defined in the study, includes the towns of Andover, Bethel, Gilead, Greenwood, Newry, Woodstock, Upton and the unorganized township of Albany.

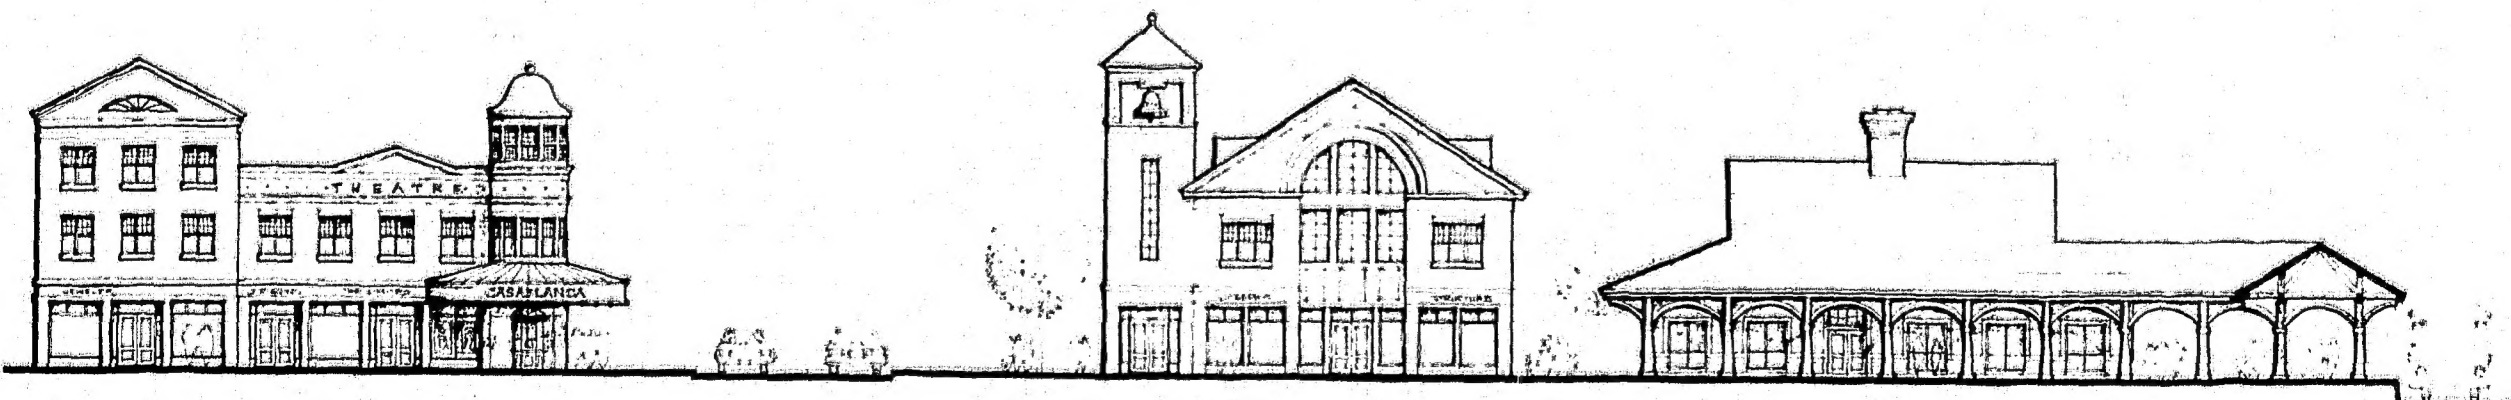

The data presented in the report is intended to provide an overview of the region's economy.

The report makes use of more than 30 charts, graphs and tables, many comparing aspects of the region's economy to county, state and national indexes (see example below).

Goal is diversification

Original Cross St. architect dropped

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Architect Winton Scott -- whose reputation in historical preservation work helped sell the Cross Street development to the voters of Bethel -- has been dismissed from the project.

Developer Heinie Merrill announced Monday that Harriman Associates of Auburn will be the new architects and engineers for the $25 million commercial development. (George M. Coombs, one of the founders of the Auburn architectural firm, was the designer of Bethel's Cole Block, built in 1891.) Merrill attributed the decision to drop Scott to the architect's failure to come up with a plan that satisfied the developers.

Scott's was one of four firms, including architects in Boston and Montreal, invited to compete for the final design-phase work, Merrill said.

Scott said Monday he was "very surprised and very disappointed," to learn of the decision. "Frankly," he said, "I feel a little betrayed by Heinie."

Scott noted that as late as two days prior to last month's referendum vote, Merrill had asked him to return to Bethel to meet with residents and respond to their concerns about the project.

The architect agreed that there were conceptual differences with the developers in the preliminary plans he submitted. "But you typically don't get together in the first pass through," he said.

Scott also claimed that the project presented to Bethel voters was more the work of his firm than of the developers.

"Our office was key to the creative concept Heinie submitted," Scott said. "I don't think his original concept could have been sold."

Scott also claimed that Merrill

To the Editor:

Tonight, Wednesday, March 16, at 7 p.m. there will be a Planning Board meeting held at Newry Town Office. The application for a bridge over the Sunday River by Sunday River Ski Resort will be discussed. All interested parties are urged to sit in on this meeting to be better informed on what might take place.

ENOUGH VIOLENCE TO GO AROUND

To the Editor:

"The reports of my death are greatly exaggerated," professed Mark Twain in 1897, and so it is with Safer Families. Although some have misinterpreted recent loss of our main funding source as the end of our program, our coordinator, Lynn Mason and a group of dedicated volunteers are continuing to provide service while searching for financial support. A local organization has generously provided office space, and a small grant from GTE keeps our phone line open.

Violence and the crime associated with it are among our country's most serious problems, and the vast majority of criminals experience their first violence in the home as children. More police and more jails only deal with the end stages of violent behavior. Safer Families provides an opportunity to help families break the cycle of violence, and to learn happier and healthier ways to live their lives. We provide direct service through our hot line, legal advocacy, and support groups. We also serve the greater community through education in the school and community groups, as well as specialized training for professionals. In March we have already done a presentation at the Mission Alliance Church and are scheduled to talk to eighth-graders at the Telstar Middle School, to law enforcement officers from across the county, and to nurses at Rumford Community Hospital.

I am troubled when we in the domestic violence movement appear to compete for scarce resources. Instead, we need to work together to expand these resources. Perhaps one day we will do such a good job that we will put ourselves out of business, or have to compete for clients, but for now there is plenty of violence to go around.

RUNNING IN WOODSTOCK

To the Editor:

I have been a resident of the Town of Woodstock for 10 years; at the annual town meeting on March 28, I will be standing as candidate for selectman.

I am concerned that the current selectman who is standing for reelection is also the town's road foreman. I believe it is a bad precedent to have a town employee also perform oversight on town management. The road foreman is accountable for his job performance to the road commissioner, who in turn is accountable to the selectmen -- one of whom is the road foreman. What kind of accountability is that?

The basic premise of checks and balances within government is out of kilter when a municipal employee is his own boss -- or when he is supervised by his own subordinate. It is time to restore effective accountability within the municipal government of the Town of Woodstock, and I offer myself as candidate for selectman to meet that purpose.

I am a faculty member at the Rumford-Mexico Center, where I teach all the five as opposed to the interactive TV math courses. To some Woodstock residents I will be familiar as the fellow who frequently asks for clarification on articles before they are voted on in the town meetings -- or as the outlandishly under-dressed runner, in all seasons, on 22 and around the village.

Qualifications I would bring to the job include bookkeeping knowledge from eight years' experience as treasurer or assistant treasurer for several organizations, and a focus on fiscal responsibility and foresight first learned as finance committee chair of a housing organization with 60 tenants and an annual budget of over a million dollars. I feel I have excellent skills in both communicating and listening.

I urge the residents of Woodstock to come to the annual meeting, the evening of March 28, and vote on all the articles on this year's Warrant.

HYSTERICAL HEADLINE

To the Editor:

The headline on pages 4 and 5 of the Feb. 9 edition of The Citizen is certainly a number one candidate for the next publication of the National Lampoons' edition of "Stranger Than Ever Newspaper Bloopers."

Once I realized that the title was not what it was meant to be, the quotes became even more hysterical. Maybe the real hidden agenda here is a promotion for sex education. I mean what a better opportunity to explain not only the facts of life but the subtleties of sexual humor. Gee, Citizen, we never expected to cover so many issues on just two pages of print.

This is just too funny. Bethel should be proud that underneath the Yankee veneer is such light humor for heavy issues.

I've gotten a great kick out of reading the Bethel Citizen over the years and have enjoyed sharing with friends anecdotes with a proper Maine accent, but this does beat them all! I guess after this issue Bethel voters will keep more than their fingers crossed for the Cross Street project. Good luck, Bethel.

from $54,000 to $56,700.

Central office personnel and district supervisors' salaries increased as follows: Robin Gundersen, administrative assistant, $21,320 to $23,300; Cindy Moxie, computer operations assistant, $20,000 to $21,500; Burnham Rice, buildings and grounds supervisor, $24,960 to $26,208; Bruce Powell, business manager, $37,313 to $39,179; Richard Blake, transportation director, $22,386 to $23,505 and Florence Kendzierski, food service director, $20,000 to $21,000.

The pay hikes were not unanimously approved. Directors voting against the teachers' wage increase were: Merton Brown, Jane Lowe and Fran Tyler of Bethel and Ray Harrington of Greenwood. Directors Alison Aloisio of Newry and Susan Gordon of Greenwood were absent.

The wage increases approved Monday evening make up 2.5 percent of the 11.96 percent increase in the FY '95 budget, according to district officials.

Budget building begins

Superintendent Jenkins ended Monday's meeting by passing out a preliminary budget package, which outlines an 11.96 percent increase in the district's overall budget.

Directors did not discuss the proposed budget. The first workshop on the budget will be held Monday, March 21 at 7 p.m. in the Telstar library.

In a letter to the board, Jenkins said the proposed budget maintains all the district's existing programs and adds no programs back that were cut during the past few years. The Crescent Park School addition accounts for a 5 percent increase in the overall proposed budget, Jenkins said.

Of that 5 percent, 4 percent, or $290,000, is an increase in the district's debt service to the state. The other 1 percent is increased CPS maintenance and plant operation -- custodians, heat and lights.

Jenkins said 1 percent of the 11.9 percent increase would go toward new buses and fixing the auditorium roof, which leaks. The district has state approval to purchase one new bus and would like to lease three more buses with the option to buy, he said.

The balance of the 11.96 percent increase is a 3.5 percent increase in uncontrollable expenses such as inflation and replacement of supplies and equipment, Jenkins said.

How much money SAD-44 taxpayers will be asked to pitch into the budget this year is uncertain until state funding figures are final, Jenkins said.

"If you can find things in this budget that are fluff," Jenkins told the board, "then please tell us. If you want more cut from the budget then people and programs will have to go, because that's what it will take. It looks like we may get more money from the state this year, which may offset the budget by about 1 percent."

State funding figures might be available at Monday's budget workshop, Jenkins said.

Eighth-grade MEA results

Bruce Bell, Telstar Middle School principal, also gave directors the results of the most recent eighth-grade Maine Educational Assessment testing.

The class was at or above the state average in five of the six subjects tested. The middle schoolers dipped below the state average by 10 points in math.

The middle school girls outperformed the boys in all six subject areas, which include math, science, reading, writing, social studies and humanities.

More on the MEA results will be published in next week's Bethel Citizen.

Plummer resigns

The board accepted the resignation Charles Plummer, principal of the Andover and Woodstock elementary schools, as of May 1.

Plummer plans to take a job in the private sector, Jenkins said. Beginning May 1, CPS Principal David Murphy will take over as AES and WES principal for the remainder of the school year. Murphy will receive no extra compensation.

WES/AES guidance counselor Wendy Ford will no longer travel to AES two days a week, but stay in WES as counselor and continue as lead teacher.

The School Board will decide later who will provide service at AES after May 1, Jenkins said.

Other business

The board approved the following substitute personnel and coaches Monday night: Susan Mills, AES softball coach; Pamela House, WES softball coach; Brant Remington, high school assistant baseball coach; Kelly Bartlett, high school assistant softball coach; Edward Latham III, substitute teacher and Jacklyn Gammon, substitute custodian/food service worker.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Due to another Thursday storm, the March monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society was canceled. The meeting has been rescheduled for Thursday, March 17, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. The topic for the meeting will be Oral History Night and six persons over 80 will be providing their memories of a bygone era. Anyone interested in attending this meeting is cordially invited to do so.

For several years, the society has been searching for a photograph of the first Methodist Church built on Main Street at about the time of the Civil War. It was destroyed by high winds in a freak storm in 1891, but to date no image of it has been found. That has now changed. Earle G. Shettleworth, Jr., sent a photocopy of a stereographic view of the church from the 1870s. Mr. Shettleworth, director of the Maine Historic Preservation Commission, indicated that several stereographic views of Bethel were recently added to the collections of the commission and this was among them.

The society is still interested in obtaining a close-up view of the Mayville church, commonly referred to as the Second Congregational Church of Bethel. Anyone with a photo of this description should contact the society at 824-2908 or by writing P.O. Box 12, Bethel, ME 04217-0012. This church was built in the 1840s and lasted until about 1920.

facilities used by fire departments and ambulance services.

"We do not have the best relationship with the health center," ambulance director Arlene Greenleaf told the selectmen.

She attributed the problem in part to rapid staff turnover at the center. "They change people so frequently that we don't have time to sit down with them," she said. "They don't know what our protocols are."

Greenleaf said that ambulance service staff have "been called on the carpet," as a result of miscommunication with the health center.

BEARS' treasurer Mary Buckman agreed. "We just have a serious problem accepting the health center. There have been instances where things have gone drastically wrong and some people have been made to look like perfect idiots," Buckman said.

There were also some positive reasons for relocating the building to the fire station site, according to EMT Mike Bennett.

OSHA regulations covering the operation of ambulance services and fire departments have been converging, he said, which makes it practical to share facilities.

"When we built the current building eight years ago there was nothing like (the OSHA regulations) out there," Bennett said.

The selectmen promised to take the BEARS' opinions into consideration, but board chairman Arthur Gilbert doubted the money would be available for constructing a suitable facility at the fire station.

"We don't have the money for it," Gilbert said. And even the $35,000 the developers would pay for the current ambulance barn (if it were not relocated) "would not go very far."

Town Manager Madeleine Henley noted that a new fire station was probably on the horizon, since the bays in the present station are too narrow for modern fire trucks.

The bays were expanded to their maximum capacity when the town purchased its last truck, she said, and there is no further room for expansion when the time comes to buy the next new truck.

No decision is imminent on any of the building relocations, Henley said later.

Routes

to keep the trails open.

"Sunday River has given me assurance that they will work with us on underpasses under the road and such," Wight said. "It will be disruptive, but we can work with it."

Sandstrom said the Planning Board will probably accept Wight's plan to work with the skiway. "If he feels that they can work it out, then we can't really complain," Sandstrom said.

Traffic problems stacking up?

How the proposed second access road will affect traffic patterns in the Sunday River valley is unclear, according to Sandstrom and Wight, who is also the town's first selectman.

"Part of Sunday River's reasoning for the second access road is to empty out a parking lot faster," Wight said, "but it just puts them on a linear parking lot (the Sunday River Road.)"

Sandstrom said he too was unclear how the resort plans to use the second access road.

"Because we don't know exactly how they're going to use it," Sandstrom said, "we don't really know how it will affect the valley."

Into Jordan Bowl

The ski resort has also proposed a new road to access its Jordan Bowl area development. The road would include a bridge spanning the Sunday River, near one of the town's old schoolhouses.

Sunday River has approval to develop new ski trails and lifts in the Jordan Bowl area, but no road -- other than the Sunday River Road -- would directly connect the new development to the rest of the resort.

Threats of legal action and land owner objections have discouraged the resort from pursuing some alternative routes into Jordan Bowl, according to notes taken by Sandstrom during a recent telephone conversation with resort owner Les

Otten. (The notes on the conversation were included in planning board minutes.)

"The people in the valley are concerned because of the tight turn at the Blueberry Mountain Inn and the narrow bridge over Simmons Brook," Wight said. "People also use the valley for non-motorized activities. They may lose that option if the Jordan Bowl Alternative Road goes in."

Wight said he has suggested to the resort that some type of recreational trail system away from traffic on the Sunday River Road be developed for hikers, bikers and joggers.

The Planning Board will discuss both the proposed second access road and the road into Jordan Bowl at its next meeting, tonight, March 16 at 7 p.m. at the Town Office.

The board has already held a public hearing on the road in Jordan Bowl, but no public hearing on the proposed second access road has been scheduled.

still owes him "quite a bit of money." Merrill acknowledged that Scott was still owed money for his work on the project, but the developer said the amount in question was not large, and that "he'll be paid." Stan Howe, director of the Bethel Historical Society, said he was unfamiliar with the work of the new project architect, "but I just hope they have someone of the caliber of Winton Scott in their firm."

From the Bethel Police log:

Pink flamingo sighted; two single-car accidents

Sunday, Bethel Police were called out on a complaint of a man dressed as a pink flamingo causing a traffic hazard at the intersection of the Sunday River Road and Route 26. Police advised the man not to intentionally stop cars and to pass flyers out quickly to cars that did stop. Police also responded to two single-car accidents last week. Wednesday Aaron Crosby, 24, of Bethel told police that as he tried to avoid a deer he hit a snowbank on the Northwest Bethel Road, which caused the vehicle to roll over, landing on its wheels. Crosby drove to a village phone to report the accident. Damage to the vehicle's doors, windows, windshield, mirrors and other body damages was estimated at $3,000. Sunday, Bethel Police and the town Fire Department responded to a rollover on Route 26. The 1986 Ford Ranger driven by Terry Povelite, 32, of Rumford hit an icy patch and rolled over on its roof. The vehicle was leaking gas when police arrived. Officials from the Fire Department checked the vehicle over and said it was fit to tow. The vehicle was possibly totaled, according to the police log. In other police news last week, March 7, a minor was summonsed for illegal transportation of alcohol. Also on March 7, Louis Peter, 22, of Watertown, Mass. was summonsed for civil possession of marijuana.

Study

study is to examine economic diversification and development opportunities in the region. In phase two of the project, the base-line report will be presented to organized groups and distributed to interested residents. Question, answer and feedback sessions will follow, Herrick said, and questions about the data may lead to additional research on specific regional topics of interest. Phase three will involve meetings centered around topics identified during phase two. According to the report, "The form that these meetings take and the topics discussed during these meetings will originate from community resident input. By allowing local residents to decide what problems to address, and how to organize, ownership of development will remain within the region. By the end of phase three, it is hoped that several projects with real potential economic benefit will be initiated, reference materials for various groups will be prepared, more people in the region will be aware of the economic challenges they face and that more people will be motivated to take control of the region's direction by becoming involved in regional development efforts." Copies of the report are available, free of charge, at the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce Office.

three-day drive to Chisasibi, Canada.

Once in Chisasibi, the dogs will set out on a 500-mile, 20-day sledging expedition to Inukjuak.

The dogs will be turned over to Adamie Inupuk, who will meet the expedition at Kuujuarapik (Great Whale) and travel with the team and its handlers for the final half of the trek.

Once home in Inukjuak, Inupuk will run the dogs as a sled team and establish a breeding program.

The expedition will be filmed for a 30-minute documentary by Compass Light Productions of Boston for broadcast in the U.S., Britain and Canada.

The Antarctic dogs originated in the coastal arctic and the BAS team are in large part descendants of dogs taken from native breeders in northern Labrador in 1943.

The return of the sled dogs to the region may help spur the natives' interest in promoting the Hudson Bay area as an adventure vacation destination, Slater said.

Four of the dogs will remain at the Newry guide service for a few months until they are placed with either Inuit or Cree dog breeders in the Hudson Bay region.

For more information on the dogs or to help sponsor the trek call Liane Benoit at (613) 730-5797.

STATE REP. RICHARD BENNETT

Rick Bennett enters race for Snowe's Congressional seat

By MICHAEL DANIELS

State Rep. Richard Bennett (R-Norway) has announced he will seek the Second District Congressional seat being vacated by U.S. Rep. Olympia Snowe.

Bennett, whose current district includes Greenwood, has served two terms in the state Legislature. His announcement that he will seek the Second District seat follows by only a week an announcement that he would seek reelection to his state office.

Bennett had earlier considered -- then decided against -- a challenge to U.S. Sen. George Mitchell. Bennett's decision last week to switch races was only one small part of the statewide political upheaval that followed Mitchell's surprise announcement that he would not seek reelection.

Soon after that announcement, Maine's two U.S. representatives, Snowe and First District Democrat Tom Andrews, both said they would seek Mitchell's Senate seat.

At least 20 candidates, including Bennett, subsequently announced they would seek to fill one of the two seats being vacated by Snowe and Andrews.

Bennett made the following statement in explaining to his decision to run for Snowe's seat: "The sudden announcement of George Mitchell's retirement this year from the U.S. Senate has created an opportunity for real and significant change in Maine politics."

"During my two terms represent-Legislature, I have been an outspoken voice for change, for bringing government back to the people, and for reducing the burdens government imposes on those creating jobs for our citizens."

"But to effect the greatest change we need to carry this fight to Washington. We need to bring the deficit under control. We need to draw the line on tax increases. We need relief from suffocating mandates and regulation. And we need to preserve our jobs and create new economic opportunities for our citizens."

"This is why I am running to succeed Olympia Snowe in the U.S. Congress."

"I offer myself to the Republican Party as a candidate who is a Maine native, with deep, 200-year-old roots in Maine soil. I have struggled as a small business owner and have worked for one of western Maine's beleaguered manufacturing companies. I have twice been elected to public office and have a proven track record for practicing what I preach."

"And I have ten years of activism in the Republican Party -- most recently as state party vice chairman. This race for Congress is wide open, and old-fashioned grassroots campaigning will determine the outcome."

"I am deeply grateful to the people of Oxford County for the opportunity to serve them in the Maine Legislature. I look forward to serving them and the rest of Maine further as a member of Congress."

Congratulations to Jeff Hollowell for winning the spelling bee in his sixth-grade classroom. Walter Inman and Bryan Martin were runners-up. Jeff got to compete in the district spelling bee. He did not win, but did well, and we are proud of him.

Our Odyssey of the Mind team, made up of fifth- and sixth-graders competed last week against a team from the junior high. Again, we did not win, but put up a valiant effort and had a good time doing so. Under the guidance of Mrs. Sharon Hollowell, the team presented an eight-minute skit showing the interaction of animals and humans. They had to show feelings of fear and curiosity. The problem was called Furs, Fins and Feathers. Jeff Hollowell played the part of a tour guide; Amy Mahaney, a bus driver; Jessica Skinner, a tourist; Shannon Mahaney, a dodo bird; and Bryan Martin, a monkey. Justine Pennington was an alternate. This was good practice for future OM experience.

Our March Parent Volunteer meeting was held this past week. Plans were continued for our upcoming spring Plant Sale. It will be held on Saturday, May 21, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. This would be a good time for you to think out your perennials and to acquire new ones. If you would like to donate any plants to our sale, give us a call at school, or contact Michelle Blake, Lisa Beebe, Dixie Inman or Joy Dougherty. We will be selling both flowers and vegetables.

We try very hard to plan our Parent Volunteer meetings for the first Tuesday of every month. Quite often something comes up and our meeting has to be postponed. From now on, if the first Tuesday gets postponed, the following Tuesday will be scheduled for our meeting. We need more parents to turn out for our meetings. We have a very active and busy group, but we want all who are interested to participate.

In honor of Music in Our Schools Month, there will be an Elementary Concert featuring the band, chorus and orchestra. This event will be held at the Guy E. Rowe School gymnasium in Norway on Wednesday, March 30, at 7 p.m. All are invited. Come and see what music our children can perform.

Grades three through six send their thanks to the Lewiston Sun Journal for the donation of newspapers in the classroom. On March 8 our classrooms read, discussed and learned about newspapers. We began on page one and worked our way right to the end. Thank you, Sun Journal!

Gould skiers in Jr. Olympics Shaner, Cote place high in X-C nationals

Gould Academy junior Chris Shaner of Norway took a third place in the junior women's 10-kilometer classical race at the Cross-Country Junior Olympics in Bend, Oregon last week.

Senior Patrick Cote, 18, of Waterville finished 4th in the Older Junior class in the 15-K classical race and sixth for all juniors.

Shaner was also on the Number One New England team, which won the Junior Olympic 3 X 5-K relay on Sunday. Cody was on the New England Number Two team, which took fourth.

It was the first trip to the Junior Olympics for both skiers.

According to New England Team Leader Dennis Donahue, both skiers looked very relaxed. "In the middle of the race, I told Patrick that he was in the top seven and he looked surprised," said Donahue. "He made it look like it was no big deal." Shaner, 16, had an equally stellar day, finishing third in the Junior I race and ahead of all of the Older Juniors, a class which includes numerous college skiers.

Shaner's result was a pleasant surprise, to her coach, Dick Taylor, as her best New England JO Qualifier results this season had been a pair of fifth-place finishes. Cote has trained with the Gould program for the last four years, and hopes to ski for Dartmouth, Vermont, or Colorado-Boulder next year. Shaner has trained with Taylor for the last two years. "They did a great job," Taylor said, "it validates the several years of systematic training they've both done."

Although not as strong in the freestyle races, both Cote and Shaner were pleased with their results. Shaner was 13th in the 5-K, and Cote was 20th in the 10-K.

Several qualify for alpine eastern teams

Gould Academy alpinists have posted solid results this year, and several have qualified for Junior II and III Olympics or the Eastern Junior II Invitational this year.

Sophomore Erik Renna qualified for a trip to the Junior II Olympics in Mt. Snow, Vt., March 16-20, where he will ski in downhill, super-G, slalom, and giant slalom events. In addition to qualifying for the JII Olympics, he helped Gould to second place in a field of 20 teams in the New England Prep School Championships, with a 23rd place finish in the slalom.

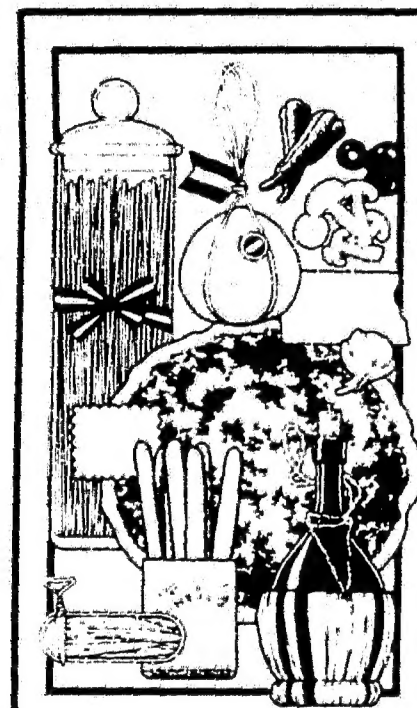

Freshman Tim Landry won the second run of the Black Mountain Slalom to finish second overall.

Combined with first-, third-, and fourth-place finishes in other qualifiers, Landry is virtually guaranteed of a spot on the Maine JIII Olympic Team, which will travel to the JIII Olympics at Hunter Mountain, N.Y., March 10-12 for slalom, giant slalom, and super-G events.

Freshman Ben Bearsch, and sophomores Mark Harries, Chris Shearer, and Greg Renna qualified for the JII Invitational March 10-13 at Killington, Vt. The Gould alpine team will race and train throughout their three-week March vacation. Their final race is the 54th annual Sugar Slalom April 9-10 in Stowe, Vt.

Telstar Career Week

By ESTHER ARCOS

Last week's 110 juniors and seniors at Telstar High School participated in career week.

This activity enabled the students to spend time learning about careers that will probably interest them in the future.

Telstar Guidance Counselor, Joanne Chase said, "this is a wonderful opportunity for the students to try out different career aspirations. They explore and enjoy those occupations that give them an idea of what they want to do for a career in the future."

Most of the students took jobs around the SAD44 area.

But others worked as far away as the Boston area and beyond.

Fabian Corriveau from Gilead worked with the Fire Department of Norwood, just outside of Boston. James Holden and Jamie Orrok worked in a health club in N.H.

Aaron Paul, who worked with chiropractor Joseph Dimarco of Bethel, thought that career week was a great idea. "It gives people a good idea of what they want to do with their lives," he said.

Other students apparently agreed. Sarah Stowell, at The Wild Rose in Bethel said, "It is a good experience for people, you get a good idea of what you want to do in the future."

Chris Howe, at the Crescent Park School said, "It helps the student to see what the working world is like."

Sarah Coolidge also tried teaching at CPS. "I think it is fun doing different things with the kids, though you have to have a lot of patience to be a teacher," she said. "Career week is a good experience because it gives you the opportunity to look at different careers you would normally not look at."

Misty Hutchins spent the week at Forbici Hair learning what running a small business is like. "I like it here because it is a good example of how to start a business, and that's what I am interested in," she said.

Some students who did not sign up for a place to go were assigned by the school to SAD44 jobs.

B.J. Walker and Darren Reynolds said they weren't too thrilled with their assignment at the SAD44 bus garage, but they admitted they were learning to do some repair work.

Underclassmen explore careers

Telstar freshmen and sophomores also learned last week about careers.

On Wednesday, fifty presenters gave speeches to the freshmen dealing with job opportunities, while the sophomores took some field trips to several colleges and to L.L.Bean.

On Friday several presenters spoke to the students about sexual abuse, child abuse, self esteem and drugs and how they affect bodies and minds.

(Esther Arcos is a Telstar High School senior and an exchange student from Spain. She spent career week at the Bethel Citizen.)

More Adjustments to 1994 Tax Numbers

This article is brought to you by Jane Gray, CPA

Among the tax numbers that have been adjusted for 1994 are social security taxes and benefits, college bond interest exclusions, the excise tax on luxury automobiles, and the mileage rate for business travel.

• Even though the social security (FICA) tax rates remain the same for 1994, the wage bases to which both the social security portion and the Medicare portion apply increase. As a result, you may pay higher social security taxes this year.

The 6.2% social security portion of FICA tax will apply to $60,600 of wages (compared to $57,600 last year). The 1993 Tax Act removed the maximum wage limit for the Medicare tax, so the 1.45% Medicare portion of the tax will now be assessed on all wages. In 1993, the wage base for the Medicare tax was $135,000.

The self-employment tax for self-employed individuals remains at 12.4% for the social security portion and 2.9% for the Medicare portion. The wage bases to which these rates apply increase to the same amounts as the wage bases for employees given above. Self-employed individuals get a tax deduction for 50% of the self-employment tax they pay.

Social security benefits paid in 1994 won't be affected until earnings for the year exceed $8,040 for those under age 65, and $11,160 for those age 65 - 69. There is no earnings limit for those 70 years or older.

• Due to a technical error in the 1993 Tax Act, the thresholds affecting the tax exemption for college bond interest actually decrease rather than increase in 1994. The amount of income at which taxpayers begin to lose the tax-free exemption for college bonds is $61,850 for marrieds and $41,200 for singles.

• The excise tax on luxury automobiles will apply to vehicles with a price tag of $32,000 or more for 1994.

• The mileage allowance for business travel in 1994 increases to 29 cents a mile.

East Stoneham

By ELEANOR NELSON

Jennifer D. Woodbury has been named to the dean's honor roll at Ursinus College, Collegeville, Pa. She is a senior English major there. Jennifer is the daughter of Bette and John Woodbury of East Stoneham.

At the annual Town Meeting about 27 inhabitants participated in the voting of the town's matters. (There are over 100 people registered to vote in town.) Members voted to eliminate the smaller accounts and put it all into a general fund to pay the bills out of. Detailed graphs and charts showing the expenses of the town by percentages were distributed and explained by selectman Jim Tinder.

The times for paying property taxes was changed in order to solve the problems of poor cash flow in the months of November and December. There was much discussion on this matter, and it was decided to have one-half of the taxes due by Sept. 30 and the other half due by Dec. 31, instead of paying it all in December. Ten percent interest will accrue on any bills directly after the due dates.

The Fire Department got the $8,500 asked for over last year's $4,500. This will go toward new pagers, as the fire phones were not reaching the firemen away from their homes. $18,000 was raised to repair the fish screen at Keewaydin Lake and $924 for the Mill Pond Dam.

Jim Tinder was elected for a three-year term as selectman; Bette Woodbury for a two-year term. Mary Fox remains as town clerk; Albert Fox is the fire chief of town, and Mike McAllister and Fred Fox are the assistant fire chiefs.

Carleton Barker, Jr. was elected to a one-year term as road commissioner, and John Woodbury is the code enforcement officer, with Tom Barker as alternate. Albert Nelson, Sr. was elected for one year as sexton.

$5,081 was approved for the 15th installment on the municipal fire building and next year will be the last payment.

On Sunday there were 9 members of the Stoneham Knight Riders Snowmobile Club who went by machine from the Club House to the Colonial Restaurant on 302 below Bridgton for dinner. Four members met them there, going by truck or car. What a nice and enjoyable day it was.

Carole Nelson has been home sick a few days. She is feeling better at this writing and back to her work at "Flowers Etc." at Waldo Street, Rumford. (I got my bouquet of a dozen red roses again this year for my anniversary and this week got a half dozen "just because." It's nice to have a daughter-in-law in the flower business.)

Tuesday, March 8, 18 members of Stoneham Knight Riders Club met at the Fire Station. Pete Fox will be the new trail master this next year. A paper outlining the trails to be groomed was given out to members.

Tuesday evening, Kate Flynn and I attended the Oxford County Republican potluck supper and meeting at the C.N. Brown Conference Room at South Paris. There must have been about 80 people there representing their towns and districts. It was a good meeting.

Jessie Hart was the guest at a birthday party Saturday night. Those attending were: Mom-Kelcie Hart, Sarah Hart, Brad Record, Rick Wing, Karen Wing, Derek Leonard, Jamie Leonard, Dong Wing and another other-Monica Wing. Jessie received some nice gifts plus money. A birthday cake with 13 candles and ice cream were served.

I visited my brother Vernon Holand at Ledevew Nursing Home Sunday night. Vernon's wife Tommy was there, also. While I was there I stopped in for a short chat with Agnes Lufkin, who is a patient. Agnes' husband Charlie worked with Richard Wing for many years. Mrs. Lufkin seemed to be in good spirits, and I enjoyed the visit and told her I'd stop by again when I came in.

I called Joyce Hathaway one day this week to see if Ellsworth was getting over his accident at the mill. She said he was much improved and was doing some work at the mill.

Cleo Ryerson called and said that the alumni banquet will be held June 4 at Telstar High School. Cleo and others are trying to get class members who started with their class, that would have graduated in 1944 but because of other circumstances including military service could not, to get together at the banquet this spring. They are going to try to send letters to anyone who started with their class if possible. I'll be mentioning this in this column from time to time until then.

Another snowstorm and no school today. The news said this is our 16th storm this year. Seems like a lot more. Spring will arrive this month; I hope it remembers.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society reports that another scrapbook has been filled at the historical museum. The museum has received two old Currier and Ives prints, one of summer and one of winter. The society tries to make a contribution to our community.

I greeted March on the second day with a snowshoe walk to the swamp across the pond. It happened this way. My niece, Kathy, called to ask me if I'd like to go snowshoeing on this lovely day. I was a bit hesitant for I hadn't been on snowshoes for nearly two years. However, I decided I'd go because the day was so inviting. The sun was blazing on the snow-covered world.

The tree trunks cast blue shadows and the sun turned to a kaleidoscope of color that made diamonds seem dingy.

The sky was such an incredible blue and the clouds were so entrancingly soft and white.

So we went off to the pond and down the bank where I took my way cautiously. We hit the pond and off we went toward the far shore.

In the distance a few cattails lifted their bayonets, dark above the snow. We entered the swamp among the bushes and found the snow deeper here and softer. Around the pond's edge was a fringe of brown grasses.

We stalked the swamp to Sanborn River's shoreline but did not go on to it.

We stopped to look at Noyes Mountain. There was a breathless moment looking across the valley and seeing the scarlet maple blossoms like a touch of pastel crayon across rows of tree tops.

We traveled for some time always looking for animal tracks and things of interest. We noticed a variety of evergreens that started from seeds dropped on the moss-covered trunks of fallen monarchs of the forest. As young spruce shoot upward in long files on the decaying trunks they clasp their roots around the dead tree and finally reach the earth.

I got careless and caught the toe of the shoe, so down I went. The snow was soft, so there was no injury but a little difficult in getting up.

The trail toward home was easy and enjoyable. The pond was flat, like well-brushed hair, until again we had to climb the bank of the pond to the road. We made it and were home again.

Dusk came, the witching hour, and the west was stained with sunset. A time of magic when anything can happen. The color changed from bright reds to burnished gold, to soft, to dark purple of twilight.

I was tired but refreshed from the fresh air and the beauty of it all. I had enjoyed it, even the fall which proved to me that I am viable and must be vigilant and vulnerable.

On Saturday, the 5th, my nephew Albert, his wife and mother took me to see my brother Ernest at Clover Manor.

Robert Holt of Windsor was at his parents' home early in the week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Holt and Mary of Norway were at the farm on Sunday.

The Forgets were at their cottage here on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Piccirillo were in Portland on Sunday.

"Top O' the Morning to Ye" -- Get your leprechaun slippers out -- that old clay pipe -- and polish up that Irish smile of yours. It's time to wear the green and be proud of it me lads and lassies. Try this exercise on for size. Picture yourself high above the Atlantic, looking down upon the greenest isle you've ever seen, sitting upon the bluest of seas -- the pipes -- yes, the pipes are playing "Danny Boy" to commemorate the advent of your arrival, and feel the sense of peace that flows into your veins, as you visualize those friendly faces and outstretched arms that will surely greet you. For residing on that isle are the friendliest folks of the world. So strike up the band McNamera -- kiss the Blarney Stone, and place the Shamrock in your lapel. It's Saint Paddy's Day, P.S. Don't forget the corned beef and cabbage boys -- now would ye!

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphy over the weekend of March 5 were David and Chris Greenberg of Rye, N.H. Frank has also requested for me to give a hearty "thank you" to Teddy Taylor for assisting him in pulling his truck out of his driveway during a recent storm. "I was stuck," Frank told me. We should all take off our hats to Ted, who is always most accommodating and helpful -- not to say the least, dependable. To see Teddy home again and recovering nicely is good news to all of us.

Little Cody Sweetser celebrated her third birthday at her home here on the North Road recently. A "Barney" cake and ice cream were enjoyed, and she was a happy little girl when she received many "Barney" gifts. Guests of the little girl were Brad and Janet Stone and daughter of Berlin, N.H., and Jessica Pike, who resides at the present time in Albany and is Cody's older sister.

Edward and Peggy Rice are the proud new owners of a vehicle they purchased in Gorham, N.H.

Mildred McLain was in Norway one day last week to keep a regular doctor's appointment.

Keep looking for the arrival of the robins folks. Spring is just a hop, skip and a jump away.

Remember -- Spring is nature's way of saying "Let's Party."

So, until next week then -- Keep the faith and as the Irish say, "May the winds be forever at your back."

Hello, I hope March is going well for everybody. This week is Career Week for Telstar students. Lori Davis and I are both spending the week at the Woodstock School, Lori working in the third grade with Mrs. Szente and I in the fifth grade with Miss Newcomb. Today was our first day on the job and it was a lot of fun. Three of my friends are spending the week at Stephens Memorial Hospital, one at Rumford Hospital, one at Crescent Park School, one at Oxford Hills High School, one with the Rumford police, and one at Wild Rose in Bethel. Mandy McInnis is job shadowing a veterinarian in Norway.

Linda Tyler celebrated her birthday last week. She paid a visit to Pinhook on Saturday, March 5.

On Sunday, March 6, Tammy, Jason, and Bridget Billings enjoyed breakfast at the home of Sterling and Irene Mills. Also there were Betsey Cummings and her children, Carly and Ross.

Rob and Norma Davis' granddaughters, Krystle, Allison and Kara, spent the weekend in North Woodstock. Along with Bridget Billings, they enjoyed sliding and playing in the snow.

Emma and Lee Billings received a phone call from their niece Mary Gray who lives in Tennessee. Emma has been ill for the past week and is just now coming out of it.

That's it for this week. Anyone wishing to have something published in this column can give me a call or jot me a note -- your news is important too!

Good morning to one and all. It is cloudy here this 7th day of March. I had hoped for another day as perfect as yesterday was, but that wishful thinking has done no good. At least it isn't terribly cold.

Not much happened here a week ago today. Peggy did go to do her card work at Laverdiere's and was back home quite early in the afternoon. I got my news ready to go and then did some work on the outside storm door on the front of our mobile home. The door closer had come disconnected, so I replaced the screws so that it would work again. It was too cold and windy to do very much outside, so I did things inside.

Tuesday evening, we attended the meeting of Oxford Pomona Grange at West Paris Grange Hall. It all started with an excellent supper put on by West Paris Grange. This was CWA night and was in the charge of Myrtle Bisbee, who is our CWA chairman in Oxford Pomona. Myrtle had invited ladies from outside of our Pomona to come be the officers for the evening. It was good traveling, and she had visitors to fill all but one office. I am the master of Oxford Pomona, but all I had to do was sit on the sideline and listen during the business part of the meeting. Peggy and I did put on a skit for part of the program. I enjoyed the whole thing. We had a very nice supper; the ladies did a fine job conducting the meeting, and we had a real good attendance and program. So what more could anyone ask for? It was a very successful meeting.

After listening to the projected weather report on Wednesday morning, we decided if we were going to visit Viva in Auburn, Wednesday was the day to do it, as a storm was predicted for Thursday. It was beautiful weather on Wednesday, so we had an early lunch and then went to Auburn. We found Viva feeling quite well and wishing that she might go shopping. Peggy took her shopping and I tagged along. We visited three different stores, and when we had done the third store Viva was getting very tired, so we took her back to the Odd Fellows Home. We soon left for home, as Viva needed a nap and rest.

Thursday was a different kind of a day, and I was satisfied to stay inside and let the snow fall. Our sister, Laura Hutchins, had traveled to Orono on Wednesday for workshops connected with her work. She had to return home in the storm on Thursday afternoon. She found it bad traveling and was some relieved when she finally got back home in East Andover. Our nephew, David Yates, plowed our front yard that evening, but it stormed some more after he plowed. It was a real duzy of a storm. I figure that with all of the snow that we have had, we'll be lucky if it's melted and gone by August 1.

Peggy and I both went out early Friday morning to clear out more snow. We got along quite well, so Peggy left to do her card work at Laverdiere's. I continued to work on the snow for a while but had to leave some for the next day. I finished clearing out most of the snow on Saturday. I had problems breaking shear pins, but I finally found my problem. The rotor that picks up the snow had been bent and was hitting the head of a bolt. I straightened the bent part of the rotor and had no more problems.

Peggy attended the dance at West Paris Grange Saturday evening. It was a good evening and they had a good turnout of dancers.

Yesterday was another beautiful day. I shoveled some snow in the forenoon, then we had an early lunch and went to Gray and on into the edge of New Gloucester to visit our aunt, Doris Hayes, at the Paradise Boarding Home. We had a bad time finding the place. We had never been there before. Peggy thought that she'd know the place when she got there, so we kept traveling and was well on our way to Auburn before she stopped to ask directions to the home. She stopped at a small store to ask directions. The gentleman there gave her directions and said the place was painted a light blue. By the time we got back to it, it had turned to a light green, but by going by other things that she had been told we found the place okay. The place is back away from the road and they have no sign by the road, so it is difficult to find.

We visited for a while and then made our return trip home. As we traveled home we realized that the skiways had been well patronized, as we met car after car with telltale signs of skiing.

Pomona Grange will be held at Franklin Grange Hall in Bryant Pond. We will be working the Pomona degree and will be inspected by Clyde Berry, master of the Maine State Grange. There will be a rehearsal at the Grange Hall on Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. I hope all of the degree officers will be present for this rehearsal, as it is very important that we rehearse so that we can do good work. This rehearsal will be on Sunday afternoon, April 3. Please make every effort to be there.

Prepare for the Craft, White Elephant and Food Sale to be held at West Paris Grange Hall on May 7. To reserve tables for $3, call Peggy Blake at 674-3872.
 There will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall on March 19. This dance will be hosted by West Paris Sportsman Club as a way for them to raise money. The Richard Felt Orchestra will furnish the music the same as usual.

NOVA building plans at a standstill

By KEN SCOTT

The Northern Oxford Vocational Area 2000 Board met at Telstar last Wednesday to pull together one and a half years' worth of work, but discussion centered on how plans to find a separate building for NOVA students have hit a snag.

"The NOVA board has said 'no' to leasing the Bass building," said NOVA Director Dewaine Craig.

Margaret Hand, who is a NOVA 2000 board member as well as chairman of the SAD44 school board, argued that the local district should build an entirely new building. "This is a good time for SAD44 to build a new building because the state will pay for most of it. We should go to the voters for a new building."

"The NOVA board said 'no' to the Bass building, and building a facility would cost $3 million or more. I will bet you on what the answer would be," said Craig.

Craig added that he agrees that NOVA needs its own facility, but because of political and economic reasons he thinks NOVA should be looking at other options.

Millard Harrison of New England Partnership noted that the Facilities Committee had done a great deal of work to come up with four possibilities.

"The four possibilities (in order of preference) are the Bass building, a new building, Rumford Center School, and an addition at Mountain Valley," said Harrison.

"Mountain Valley addition came

MARGARET HAND
SAD44 Board Chairman

out last of the four options because some NOVA board members thought if the program was attached to SAD43, it would become a Mountain Valley NOVA program," said Harrison.

Craig added that at this point, NOVA has run into a wall on the facility issue.

"Let's not call it a wall or a stumbling block," said NOVA 2000 board member Linda Saunders. "We have to take the risk to make this viable. Saunders appealed to Craig to fight for the building and he jokingly noted, "my lifespan is getting short around here."

In other business, the NOVA 2000 board reviewed a copy of the NOVA 2000 guidance plan, which the guidance committee recently completed. Student Services coordinator Daniel Hart and the guidance committee reviewed the guidance plan with the board.

"We wrote to every other vocational school in the state to see what they had for a vocational guidance plan, and no vocational school has a plan instituted. We are the first ones to undertake the task," said Dirigo guidance counselor John Baker.

The plan will get students involved at an earlier age in deciding where their interests lie, and will help students make an intelligent and confident choice in their careers and their education.

The plan will attempt to get students thinking about career opportunities as early as the sixth grade, and will help the students get the training they need.

By involving the student, family, business, civic, and school students will get a better understanding of the business community. Hart also brought up the use of the "Get a Life" portfolio for the kids.

"Students will graduate with something tangible to show potential employers," he said.

Craig added that NOVA is giving next year's sixth-grade classes a "Get a Life" portfolio.

Telstar players at regional drama festival

By JANE CHANDLER

Telstar Regional High School Drama Club performed last weekend at the Central Maine Regional Drama Festival in Oakland, where one of the cast members, Andy Dennis was chosen to the All-Festival Cast.

Only 15 people were chosen for the All-Festival Cast. Dennis played the lead of Jody McKenna in the Telstar presentation.

The drama club acted out the tragedy "Dirge" by Jerome McDonough, in which townsfolk take crime into their own hands, hanging a local teenager for a murder he actually didn't commit.

Andy Dennis played the teenager Jody McKenna. Rachel Stowell played his girlfriend, Carol Weaver. Amanda Gilbert played her best friend Sharon Patterson. Rachel's parents were Sarah Stowell and Ian Richardson. Jenn Bowie played the gossip neighbor, Mrs. Wosser. Justin Hutchins played Andy's alcoholic father, Arthur McKenna. James Bonney played the sheriff. Jessica Coolidge played the lawyer. Andy Cole played the trial lawyer, and Darren Wigley played the judge and the bailiff.

Bunny Latham directed the play, with Chad Bishop as her assistant. Members of the crowd included Crystal Alyward, Alyssa Howe, Jess Contelo, Lydia Grover, Siiri Cressey and Molly Bean. Becky Chandler was stage manager and Lloyd Sweetser was in charge of lighting and sound.

Skowhegan won the contest for Division I with "The Crucible." Winslow was an alternate with "Antigone." Division II winner was Messalonskee, with "Gloria Mundi." Alternate was Lawrence with "Act Three, Scene Five."

The Telstar Drama Club will present this play for the public at 7 p.m., Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 24-26, at Helen Berry Auditorium. The one-act play will be presented along with "Mad Breakfast," a one-act comedy about an insane asylum.

AHHS fund drive a success

The 1993 Androscoggin Home Health Services (AHHS) Annual Drive was a success, the organization has announced.

The total pledge amounted to $34,693--a 25 percent increase over 1992. AHHS services cover Androscoggin and Franklin counties, the Bethel area, Lisbon, Norway, Rumford and Turner.

The Bethel area raised $5,561--$1,000 more than in 1992. The money will go toward giving home health services beyond the nursing care to residents who may not have any insurance or may not be covered for some care under Medicare or Medicaid.

These include homemaking services for senior citizens, in-home parenting education and volunteer programs to assist in every day living.

With the current national health system under reform, it is gratifying to know that home health services will be in growing demand, AHHS officials said, and they are hopeful the organization will be able to meet the demand.

Local AHHS fundraisers are: Gwyneth Bohr, Barbara D. Brown, June Greig, Rebecca Kendall, Catherine Newell, Barbara Stevens, Natalie Timberlake, Lindley Wieden, Janet Stowell and Barbara Douglass, chairman.

News from the
The Bethel Library

The Cross Country Quilters have made another beautiful quilt for this year's quilt raffle, and it is now on display behind the circulation desk at the library. The queen-size quilt is blue and white in the "Ohio Star" pattern. Tickets are for sale for $1 each at the library or from any library trustee. The winning ticket will be drawn on Mollycoddett Day.

The new "Check it out" classic and foreign videos for the month are: "The Official Story," "Mata Hari," "An Autumn's Tale," "The Nun," "Sugar Cane Alley," "Born to be Bad," "Modern Times," "Life of Oharu," "There's No Business Like Show Business," and "The Three Robbers and Other Stories."

Some new resources on the subject of menopause and women's health have been added to the Bethel Library, thanks to proceeds from the recent "Women at the Change of Life" workshop. The following books were added to the collection: "Drawing from the Women's Well: Reflections on the Life Passage of Menopause," by Joan Burton; "The Menopause Self-Help Book," by Susan Lark; "Ourselves Growing Older: The Boston Women's Health Collective"; "Staying Cool through Menopause," by Melvin Frisch; "Doctors' Vitamin and Minerals Encyclopedia"; "Healthy Bones," by Nancy Appleton; a literature packet from the Boston Women's Health Book Collective and a monthly newsletter, "A Friend Indeed." Many thanks to the women whose contributions made this donation possible.

The following people recently made generous donations to the Bethel Library: Margaret Joy Tibbetts, Emily Beers, Jon Starr, Beverly Cassara, and Cherie Myers all donated books; Mary Jo Kelly donated a used laser printer to be used as a back-up with the new computer, "Dogteam," by Gary Paulsen, arrived at the library from Santa Monica, Calif., a gift to the children of Bethel from Dorene, Kurt and Colin Vail via Dorene's mother, Hope Tibbetts.

Many people have been honored with a "Gift Book" donation to the library this month. Marvin Ouwinga gave "A Rare Benediction," by Ellis Peters, in honor of Tineke Ouwinga's birthday; Bernice Caddigan gave "Planets," by Gail Gibbons, in honor of Kate Caddigan's ninth birthday; and Betsy Raymond gave "The Pillars of the Earth," by Ken Follett, in honor of Charlie Raymond's birthday. A Memorial Book, "The Big Book of Home Learning," by Mary Pride, was given by Carol Parker in memory of Shirley Hodsdon. Many thanks to all of these people who have given a lasting gift to the Bethel Library in honor of someone special.

MICHAEL MICLON

Michael Miclon at Telstar

Popular variety entertainer Michael Miclon of Buckfield and friends will perform his new show "Bits & Pieces" at the Telstar auditorium to raise funds for the girls' varsity and JV basketball teams. The March 19 performance starts at 7 p.m., and doors open at 6:30. Tickets are $4 for adults, $2 for children. Children five and under are admitted free.

"Bits & Pieces" is a hilariously original collection of comic Bits and eccentric character Pieces, developed by Miclon over the last 12 years. Miclon, a native of Maine, began his career at the age of 14 as an apprentice to Maine's foremost comic team, Benny and Denise Reehl of the New England New Vaudeville Revue, now based in Gardiner. He then furthered his performance education with mime master Tony Montanaro at the Celebration Barn Theater in South Paris. Miclon also studied with juggling virtuoso Fred Garbo, of Sesame Street fame, and character wizard Randy Judkins.

Michael's work has been featured at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., the New England Theater Conference in Boston, the New England Vaudeville Festival in Gardiner and most recently the Strand-Capital Performing Arts Center in York, Pa.

This year Michael was chosen by the Maine Arts Commission to become a Maine Touring Artist, which makes it possible for groups to receive funding to sponsor his performances.

For more information contact Michael Miclon at 336-2966.

Ski-A-Thon is Saturday

Disabled and non-disabled skiers are gearing up for Saturday, March 19's big event at Sunday River -- each one enjoying free skiing as a thank you for raising money for Maine Handicapped Skiing.

More than 100 teams will get ski tickets, lunch, T-shirts and enjoy a barbecue following the event. The evening awards ceremony, at the Summit Grand Ballroom will feature a slide show of the day's fun and prizes will be awarded. Top pledge raisers will be eligible to win a week at Winter Park, Colo. (air fare courtesy of American Airlines), a week at Chalet Village, Mont-Sainte Anne, Killington, Vt., or weeks and weekends at Sunday River.

Participants skiing for per run or per vertical transport foot pledges will be skiing on the Locke Mountain Triple chair and the White Cap Quad.

Tourism contest winners opt for Sunday River

The winners of the most recent Maine Department of Tourism drawing had 10 Maine ski areas to choose from for their prize of a weekend ski get-away and apres ski dinner with Governor John R. McKernan, Jr. They chose Sunday River.

"My children ski Sunday River every chance they get. I had to choose Sunday River for them, and because it is easy to get to from Boston," said contest winner Alice Dooling of Arlington, Mass.

"I am still awestruck," said in-state winner Kent Howard of South Berwick. Howard said he chose Sunday River because it had everything in a ski resort he was looking for.

This contest is the third of three campaigns held this year aimed at promoting tourism in the state. The first campaign contest featured a lobster lunch with Gov. McKernan at the governor's mansion, the Blaine House, in Augusta and a weekend coastal get-away. The second was a pre-holiday shopping spree highlighted by lunch with the governor at the Harraseeket Inn in Freeport. The weekend ski get-away and apres ski with the governor campaign was run through newspaper and radio advertisements.

Two winning entries were drawn on Dec. 13. Each of the two names drawn has won free weekend accommodations, lift tickets, rentals, ski lessons and a dinner with Gov. McKernan.

The winners drawn had the option of choosing to spend their ski weekend at any of the 10 resort members of the Ski Maine Association.

Accompanying Alice Dooling is her husband Thomas and four out of their five children. Avid skier Kent Howard will be accompanied by his wife Jane and two close family friends. Sunday River will be a new ski experience for the elder Doolings. Howard skied Sunday River last in 1979.

"It's going to be like skiing a whole new five mountains," said Howard.

Free ski day for local folks

On Sunday, Feb. 27 Sunday River Ski Resort will offer free skiing for residents of SAD44. The offer is extended to all the residents of any SAD44 town, whether or not they have any association with the school district.

Sunday River will also offer free ski rentals and its Guaranteed Learn to Ski program. Youngsters under 18-years-old must have a parent or guardian sign for ski rentals. The Guaranteed Learn to Ski program is available to anyone 13-years-old or older.

Proof of area residency is required, and ticket vouchers are not transferable.

SNOWMOBILING DOG IS ALWAYS READY FOR A SPIN—Dolores Williams and her dog Coco take a snowmobile ride around her home on the Northwest Bethel Road. Coco is a year-and-a-half old and has been riding with Dolores, and anybody else who will take her, since she was four months old. Williams puts a rug on the seat of the machine so Coco can get a better grip. Williams said she'd prefer that the dog lie down during the rides, but most of the time she stands into the wind. Coco also has a special dog blanket and scarf to wear while hitting the trails.

Rotary Club notes:

The installation of two new members, Dan Reich and Nina-Avergun Reich, brought the Bethel Rotary Club's membership to an all-time high of 38. The new members were welcomed with a brief induction ceremony and presentation of their Rotary lapel emblems.

Two Gould Academy students, Bonnie Crocker and Hillary Harrison, presented an informational and entertaining slide program of their Habitat for Humanity projects they participated in through the school's Four Point Program, last week. Hillary spoke of the experiences of the group she was in that went to a work site in South County, R.I., where, during the few days they were able to work, due to some bad weather, they set some windows and doors, did some electrical work, and completed shingle siding on three sides of the house.

Bonnie showed slides of the group she was with that went to Hartford, Conn. This group framed walls and put up joists for the second story. Both girls concluded that they felt they worked very hard, as everyone involved did, and that the projects were very organized and professional. They said they felt very good about what they did and thought that the whole idea of Habitat for Humanity was an excellent way to provide housing for people who otherwise would be unable to afford their own home.

Guests at the meeting were Ellen Crocker, Joel Riley and Erica Such. Visiting Rotarians from Rumford were Elaine Desgrofflietier and club president Jerry Cohen.

Bethel Rotarian Dave Murphy presented Rotary information concerning the importance of attendance and involvement as a club member, noting that "Ninety percent of life is just showing up," and concluding that attendance is the springboard to the greater rewards of fellowship, Rotary knowledge, participation, and service.

S. DOWNS REENLISTS

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Stephen L. Downs, son of Erma J. Graham of Andover, recently reenlisted for three years and reported for duty at U.S. Naval Hospital, Rota, Spain.

BRYANT POND GIRL IN THE CAPITAL--Elise Bennett of Bryant Pond recently spent a week in Washington, D.C. in the Presidential Classroom program. While in the program, she met Maine Sen. George Mitchell in his Capitol Hill office. Presidential Classroom is a non-partisan, nonprofit, educational organization which hosts one-week classes that are designed to give students a firsthand knowledge of American government. Bennett, a junior at Telstar High School, is the daughter of Douglas and Judy Bennett.

Mundt-Allen Post #81

The Mundt-Allen Post 81 held their annual oyster stew and chicken pie supper at the Legion Hall on Tuesday evening, March 8, in observance of the 75th birthday of the American Legion. Seventy-five people were in attendance, to hear guest speaker Harry Faulkner, a member of Post 81, give a presentation on Patriotism.

"I think the Legion is a perfect example of patriotism in action," Faulkner said. "And in particular American patriotism. For 75 years we have brought together men and women of all branches of services, of all walks of life and every possible point of view under the sun, yet for 75 years we have all been able to put aside these differences and work together for one common goal, and that is that we have a voice of the veteran for the veteran and by the veteran and I have never seen anything that suggests that the American Legion has ever shirked that patriotic duty."

"The dictionary defines patriotism as love and loyal support for one's country in all matters. Love and loyal support for one's country in all matters is also the definition of the American Legion, and I salute each and every one of you patriots from the bottom of my heart."

At the meeting, following Mr. Faulkner's presentation, the slate of officers were presented for the following year. Brian Strickland was accepted as a member of the Post. It was also noted that the Post is getting good response on names for the Honor Roll. The completion date for this project is tentatively set for Memorial Day 1995.

It was also voted that members of Post 81 who have been members for five years and have reached the age of 70 will be given Life Membership.
